Description

Category:

Basic forms of foreign words are typically transcribed correctly, but the transcription (and hence the synthesized pronunciation) in some less usual forms or in compounds is incorrect.

Estimated time:

0.00 hour

This concerns mostly two things:

- 1) alveolar/palatal alternation (t/T, n/J)
- mezietnický, ekumenicita
- agramatický, psychoakustický, aortický
- 2) hiatus, i.e., when two vowels meet
- a) [j] is often not defined in derived word forms, and often a glottal stop is inserted (though it is not in the transcription)
- word forms of patriarchální, archaický, prozaický, nebiologický, biotopický, idey, lyceum, hyenovitý
- b) insertion of glottal stop
- poetika, poetický and their forms
- + another isolated example: filosofický, filosofie are correct, but filosofická/é yields [s] instead of [z]
